

To be Global in Vienna

The Forschungsschwerpunkt Global History, hosted by the Faculty of Historical and Cultural Sciences of the University of Vienna, is a network of scholars and students with a common field of interest and research. The basic idea of a Forschungsschwerpunkt is to break up institutional boundaries and connect people from different departments and universities. The FSP invites all members and all people interested in its work, particularly students with global history interests and Erasmus Mundus Global Studies students to attend a workshop on April 26 from 4:30pm to 8pm in Marietta-Blau-Saal (Hauptgebäude, Tiefparterre Stiege 10).

4:30-5:30pm: Teaching Global History at the University of Vienna (introduction by Leopold Kögler and Goran Music (angefragt))

5:30-6:30pm: Global History Initiatives at the University of Vienna (inspired by the presentation of a doctoral project: Julia Harnoncourt, Unfree Labour in Pará (Brasilien))

6:30-7pm Break

7-8pm: Key Note: Julia Hauser (Kassel): Global History - Utopia or Indispensable Perspective? (presentation and discussion)

Please visit our website <http://www.univie.ac.at/globalhistory/>. No registration needed. For further information please contact Markus Mayer: markus_mayer@univie.ac.at and Leopold Kögler: leopold.koegler@univie.ac.at.